NEW RICE MILL.

The K. Yamamoto Rice Mill is the largest as well as the finest in the large cleaning capacity they are able Wood of Berkeley, Cal. ular work which they guarantee.

Many babies of all sizes and colors tumbled about in the sand trying to figure out their baffling infantile problems which will prove no more complex with their heritage of years,

But the democracy of play was contagious and leveled all ranks to a common level of good-fellowship.

From the mountain recesses, which frowning disconsolately, try their best to intimidate the more sensitive explorers, tumbled dozens upon dozens of happy boys, singing part songs in boisterous gaiety, their hats or bare heads crowned with woven ferns and crisp, fragrant maile leaves, their tired and grateful arms laden with the booty of their exploit,

They carried baskets of late wild violets, their fragrance lingering in their passing wake, and then, too, myriads of tender maidenhair and many other exquisite ferns, whose breath of springtime thrilled and whose memory lingered after their scent had faded to sweeten the warm air. The sun set in a rose-colored sky, and the amethyst glow almost tinted the play-tollers wending their diversified paths, homeward bound,

Such was yesterday's garden party. Or did you stay at home, in stuffy laden rooms, passing uncomplimentary remarks about the wretched climate of Honolulu?

Did you go to the garden fete yesterday? One of those lyrics, attuned harmoniously to each seeker for beauty and postry and rhythm.

Mother Nature, who in the spring time is very accommodating, donned her prettiest robes of pink and green, with exotic touches of red and yellow, unheard of in any of your most expensive and unusua) importations! But the trick to please is not confined to individuals, and you would have realized it had you motored in the late afternoon through vistas of palms and royal red poincianas, avenues of festooned vines, amid shooting branches, which thrust out for your recognition their heavy laden boughs of dainty peachy-pink clusters of the Cassia Nodosa, and winding through byways of lacquered banana leaves, with a glimpse here and there of lurid Golden

It was a garden party on an extensive scale, and everybody received an invitation!

The costumes were varied and unique.

Some were driven in their motor cars and carriages, as for a real garden tertained during their visit in this fete, their pastel lingerie frocks and picture hats being as appropriate as the Some wore tight bathing suits, and braving the deep, glided in on surf Kauai in the Claudine this afternoon, Chinese and Japanese garbs, out in large numbers. boards, their heads bared and chests heaving in rare ecstasy
